"It is significant as a standard piece of clarinet literature, but it holds personal significance as the first piece I was able to earn a Superior with Distinction on at State Solo & Ensemble."

In my Dreams from Anastasia

"It is significant to me because it is the first song I have performed in front of over 100 people by myself. I feel like the song and character suit me very well. Most importantly, Stephen Flathery's (the composer) music is so beautiful and complex. He masterfully and intentionally tells the story of the song through descending chords and rests. He paints a picture in your mind of a beautiful river in Paris."
